Awarding Grants

Douglas Education Center's administration has reviewed numerous methods for distributing the Emergency Financial Aid Grants to Students under the American Rescue Plan (ARP). Recognizing most students have been impacted by the national disaster, awarding metrics have been determined for all students.

The institution has developed 9 levels of awarding. Awards were determined based on pell eligibility, program length (in months, credits, hours, cost), enrollment status and FAFSA application status. The first is for students with pell-eligible EFCs in degree programs. Pell eligibility refers to pell-eligible EFCs and not pell awarding rules or regulations except that a student may not be eligible for this grant funding if in default on a federal student loan or in grant overpayment. It has been determined that degree programs are twice the length (in months, credits or hours) and are approximately twice the cost of certificate/diploma programs, on average. The second is for students with pell eligible EFCs in certificate or diploma programs and these programs are half the length (in months, credits or hours) and are approximately half the cost, therefore; the award is 50% of the same group in the degree programs, or Level 1. The third is for students with EFCs above pell eligibility in degree programs and these awards are half that of Level 1 because of pell ineligibility. The fourth is for students with EFCs above pell eligibility in certificate or diploma programs and is half the award of the same group for degree program applicants, or Level 2. The fifth is for students in degree programs who did not file a FAFSA and self-certify eligibility and are half that of Level 3. The sixth is for students in certificate or diploma programs who did not file a FAFSA and self-certify eligibility and are approximately half that of Level 4. The seventh is for part-time students in degree programs with pell-eligible EFC's and is half that of level 3. The eighth is for part-time students in degree programs with EFC's above pell eligibility and is approximately half that of level 4. The ninth is for certificate/diploma programs that are less than a semester in length (less than 15 months) and is approximately half that of level 6.

There was no need to create categories for part-time certificate or diploma programs based on the population.

Calculating Grant Amounts

Douglas Education Center's allocation for student grants under the HEERF II (remaining funds) and HEERF III, CRRSAA and ARP, 2021 is $164,219.

The grant award amount is dependent upon the number of eligible applicants or:

X number of eligible applicants X award level

Level 1 award $1,500.00

Level 2 award $750.00

Level 3 award $750.00

Level 4 award $375.00

Level 5 award $375.00

Level 6 award $200.00

Level 7 award $375.00

Level 8 award $200.00

Level 9 award $100.00

The total award potential for this group is $158,950.00. This potentially leaves a remaining $5,269.00 of funds will be awarded as is indicated below. Based on the XXX actual applications, the awards for those who applied are $XXX.

If there are any unexpended funds remaining after this award distribution, there will be an additional awarding session in early 2022. This will be based on the same as above and will be first requested, first awarded until the funds are fully expended. This could result in the final applicants award being a partial award depending on the remaining funds.
